The volunteer program at Fort Sanders requires at least a three-month commitment of four hours per week. First time volunteers are placed in the emergency room, but for returning volunteers other opportunities may be available (radiology, the laboratory, GI, and surgery). Opportunities in surgery are very limited. Volunteers are required to attend an orientation session. These sessions are offered only twice a year, once in spring and once in fall. There is no availability for volunteering in summer. A dress code of light shirt and dark pants is required.

There are a wide variety of experiences ranging from clinical work to social patient and family services. Opportunities are available in many pre-health areas including medicine, nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy, pharmacy, and speech. Volunteer Services staff members are working on establishing rotations for students interested in volunteering in multiple areas. A semester long commitment is encouraged. Clearance from your personal physician and two personal references are required with the application. An orientation session is also required. The application is available at the website.

Volunteering at Children's Hospital is based on a weekly commitment. Volunteers are required to work at least one set four-hour shift each week. Volunteering on evenings and weekends is available, but there is less opportunity. A three-month commitment is required. There are a variety of volunteering areas. You can choose your area of preference from working an information booth to working in the emergency room to working in children's rooms. An application, an orientation session, a TB test, and a meeting with the volunteer coordinator are required.
